U. S. ENVOYS' REPLY
IS SUPPRESSED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Mediation Headquarters, Niagara Falls, Ont., June 18.—The lid was clamped down tight this morning on the American delegates to the mediation conference and by orders received from Washington, a statement that they had prepared to reply to the charges of unfairness made by the Mexican delegates last night was suppressed.

Justice Lamar announced that the American statement had been held up and stated that he would not know for several hours whether it would be made public at all. That Justice Lamar and his colleagues, Frederick W. Lehmann, resented the tone of the Mexican statement was apparent.

Both were visibly annoyed by the phrases used by Senor Rabasa and approved by Senor Elguero and Rodriguez, particularly the apparent reference to the state department in the last sentence of their statement. This declared "the government of a people in the front rank of civilization and moral culture cannot assume, for a mere matter of form, the responsibility for the continuation of the slaughter, pillage and atrocities which accompany the present struggle in Mexico and which a vain effort has been made to conceal from the public of the United States."

The American delegates received another sharp sting in the assertion by the Hueria representatives that "the rejection of the neutral government proposed by the mediators is tantamount to abetting, and even exacting, fraud and violence at the elections."

No attempt was made to conceal the fact that the making public of the Mexican charges had brought the negotiations to a crisis. It was predicted that the end of this week would see the end of the conference here.

That the Mexican statement demanding that the American government recede from its requirement that the Constitutionalists be allowed to control the Mexican government until the elections shall have been held is regarded here as an appeal to American public sentiment as against the Washington administration.

General Huerta, making his last ditch fight against the purpose of President Wilson to remove his office following from power, has been convinced that the American government will not allow his troops to move westward from Vera Cruz. He believes he is safe in attacking its policy through the press of the United States, while he gathers his forces for the final struggle with the rebels.

REBEL LEADERS
PATCH UP TRUCE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Torreon, Mexico, June 18.—General Carranza's resignation to Provisional President Carranza several days ago, but Carranza refused to accept it and Villa is now actively preparing for the attack on Zacatecas. Villa said today that this would begin on Sunday and that he would lead the assault in person.

So far as Villa is concerned, General Carranza is still first chief of the Constitutionalists. There are no unsurmountable differences between the two men, Villa's friends declare. They summed up the situation today as follows:

"Being human, General Carranza and General Villa at times have divergent opinions as to the plans to be pursued to secure the best results under certain conditions, but in the past have striven each to meet the other halfway in order to reach an agreement having for its object the advancement of the principles of the revolution."

The seizure by Villa's officers of the government posts at Juarez and other points was explained today by his adherents as follows:

"In order to do away with petty annoyances which might grow to such magnitude as to become evils, it was deemed wise to place in public office throughout the state of Chihuahua at least, men of one following. The attempt to divide the official duties between partisans of General Carranza and General Villa proved a failure in practice, regardless of what it might have been in theory and it was thought best to change the system for the advancement and betterment of the public service. The change effects but very few minor positions and has no special significance."

Reports that General Villa has notified the mediators at Niagara Falls that he is ready to send a commission to confer with them and that as a condition he will insist upon the naming of General Felipe Angeles as provisional president are untrue. General Villa regards the mediation negotiations as a matter of diplomacy and has taken no more active interest in them than to follow their course closely. He is very friendly with General Angeles and regards him as well fitted for the presidency but has taken no steps to suggest him for the position.

STAMPING OUT DISEASE.

Efforts of Board of Health Centered on Measles and Scarlet Fever.

Since the latter part of April there have been about fifty cases of scarlet fever in this city, and of this number twenty-three cases were reported in May and up to the first of this week nineteen more cases had broken out. The board of health and the board of education are working together in an effort to stamp out the epidemic. At No. 5 school a short time ago Dr. Mary Gage day found five children suffering from bad throats and sent them home. Two of the children sent home developed scarlet fever. After sending the children home the school was thoroughly fumigated and no further cases have developed. At school No. 6 it has been found necessary to fumigate several rooms. In fact a large number of the cases have developed in that vicinity. The Sunday school of the First Presbyterian Church has been closed owing to the epidemic. The board of health will hold a special session on Saturday evening to discuss the situation and to form plans for making the quarantine more effective and to try and educate the parents as to the vital necessity of observing quarantine conditions to prevent a further spread of the fever.

GARDINER THIEF
BROUGHT TO JAIL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Fred Bodley, who has been employed on the farm of George W. Youngs at Gardiner, was brought to jail Wednesday night to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. On the evening of Decoration Day he left the house, and the following day Mr. Youngs discovered the loss of two gold watches which were worth $85. A warrant was issued for Bodley's arrest but he was not found until Wednesday afternoon when he entered W. Chipp Tanney's hotel at New Paltz and walked into the arms of Deputy Sheriff William Conen and Deputy Sheriff Jacob Huben, who were at New Paltz on another matter. They placed him under arrest and took him before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Wright, who committed him to jail to await the action of the grand jury. Bodley is 19 years old. Mr. Youngs came to Ulster county from Nebraska, where he resided for many years.

REBELS AGAIN
ATTACK DURAZZO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Durazzo, Albania, June 18.—Another furious assault was made upon this city today by Albanian rebels, who were encouraged by the defeat of the Albanian regulars in their offensive operations yesterday.

King William, who lost 200 killed and 250 men wounded in yesterday's attack upon the rebels, was in the trenches east of the city in personal command of the defenders.

All of the cannon of the Gendarmerie, the regulars, and the Mili-saires were captured by the insurgents, who immediately turned them against the city and shelled the palace.

King William sent an urgent request to the officers of the foreign war ships in the harbor to land more marines to protect the royal family, the palace and the consulates.

At noon the capture of the capital by the rebels seemed inevitable.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS

Arrange For Star Course and Adopt Special $3 Membership.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. held a regular meeting on Wednesday evening at the association and adopted a special $3 membership good for three months. The main idea of the new membership is to enable men and boys who are visitors in the city during the summer months and young men home for the college vacation to avail themselves of the privileges of the association and the use of the swimming pool and the baths. Any young man in the city, however, can take out to do so. The board also adopted a star course of entertainments for the coming winter and arranged the dates. The first number of the course will be held at Association Hall on Wednesday evening, November 4, when the Boston Imperials will be here. This is a first class concert company. On Wednesday, January 13, the Muscanto St. Petersburg's orchestra will be the attraction; Wednesday, March 10, the Lyric Glee Club; and on Wednesday, March 31, former Governor Hanley of Indiana will deliver an address. The entertainment course is under the supervision of the social work committee: H. H. Flemming, W. C. Shafer, David Burgevin, L. C. Elmen, Dorset, Dwight McEntee, T. W. Flemming and A. C. Tongue.

$2,500,000 FIRE
IN GLASGOW

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Glasgow, Scotland, June 18.—The greatest conflagration in the history of Glasgow swept the harbor-front today doing damage estimated at $2,500,000.

The fire broke out upon the great Kingstown docks on the banks of the Clyde and soon these enormous piers with their freight sheds and thousands of tons of freight were destroyed.

Half a dozen ships, which were moored alongside of the docks caught fire and several of them were burned to the water's edge.

All of the fire fighting strength of the city was rushed into the shipping district to save adjoining docks and warehouses while fire-boats poured thousands of tons of water upon the blazing quays and the burning ships. Vast volumes of black smoke rolled up from the fire obscuring the sun.

For a time it looked as if the conflagration would roll along the entire water-front, eating up the six miles of docks along the Clyde. Hundreds of stevedores and policemen were pressed into service as volunteer fire fighters.

In the extent of its mercantile marine Glasgow is surpassed by few cities in the world. It comprises about 1,600 vessels with an aggregate of nearly 2,000,000 tonnage.

Private Dispatch Received in Washington Says He Has Taken Refuge in Texas.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 18.—General Carranza has fled from Mexican soil and is now finding refuge at Laredo, Texas, according to a dispatch received today by Representative Kent of California, from a friend. Kent immediately took the dispatch to the White House. No confirmation from official sources has been received, but the wires are being kept hot in an effort to ascertain the facts.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Colonel Roosevelt Given Warm Farewell in London.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Southampton, Eng., June 18.—A warm farewell was given today to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who sailed for New York on the Imperator after a whirlwind visit of less than ten days in Europe to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit.

Crowds cheered the ex-president in London and there was a friendly demonstration in the streets here and on the pier when the Colonel went on board the big Hamburg-American liner. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and his cousin, Philip Roosevelt, of New York.

Colonel Roosevelt was accompanied to Southampton by Arthur Lee, a Unionist member of Parliament, who was the American statesman's host over the week end.

W. H. Page, the American ambassador, the members of the embassy staff, Lord Beresford and several other notable persons were at the railway station in London when the Colonel left.

Before going aboard the boat train Colonel Roosevelt issued a brief statement thanking the British people for their kind interest.

"I've had a bully good time," said he.

The Colonel and Lord Beresford posed with clasped hands for the newspaper photographers.

Colonel Roosevelt looked in good health despite the throat weakness which will prevent him from taking an active part in the approaching political campaign in the United States.

"If any one expected me to go into this campaign vigorously I cannot do so now," said Colonel Roosevelt, who had been warned by Sir Sinclair Thomson, the famous throat specialist, that his larynx would not stand any severe strain. A slight huskiness is noted in the Colonel's voice, but it becomes marked when he tries to speak loudly. His voice trails off into a squeak in marked contrast with the full rich tones which formerly was one of his physical characteristics.

Another passenger on the Imperator was Houdini, the "Handcuff King."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS.

Sources of Supplies Furnished in Government Bulletin.

Washington, June 18.—Of great practical value to the American business man seeking information regarding foreign markets for the goods which he handles or the sources of imported raw materials and of goods competing with domestic products are two publications presenting details with respect to every important article exported from, or imported into the United States, prepared by the Bureau of Foreign Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

It is interesting to note, for example, that coffee is now supplied almost exclusively by Brazil, Central America and other tropical countries of the western hemisphere; that sugar, formerly imported in large quantities from Java and the sugar-beet countries of Europe, is now chiefly supplied by Cuba, the Philippines and the domestic product including Hawaii and Porto Rico, and that champagne shows constantly diminishing importations as a result of the rapidly expanding home output.

American factories consume great quantities of imported materials, last year's imports including 50 million dollars' worth of each of fibers, 80 million dollars' worth of raw silk, and 100 million dollars' worth each of India rubber and hides. These are more examples of the more than 500 different classes of articles whose sources are shown in Table 3 of Commerce and Navigation of the United States, and which include such widely varied items as asbestos, made, human hair, ivory, kapok, jettans, toys, mushrooms and zinc.

Of even more interest to the American producer is Table 6, exports of merchandise from the United States to each foreign country, from which may be ascertained those parts of the world in which our raw materials, foodstuffs and manufactures are being successfully sold and those yet to be entered. Thus, while the iron and steel industry exports goods to every important country, with sales over 300 million dollars in value per annum, and the automobile industry is making each year a new high record, the cotton manufacturing industry exports less than 50 million dollars' worth of its products each year, mostly to non-manufacturing countries of Asia and America.

The distribution abroad of the less conspicuous articles of commerce is also indicated in Table 6. Athletic and sporting goods, breakfast foods, aeroplanes, motion picture films, cement, chewing gum, confectionery, and teeth are typical items chosen at random from the report, which also shows that we export large quantities of dynamo to England, of telephones to Canada, of optical instruments to Germany and France, of stoves and ranges to Kongo and other tropical countries, and of ice to Canada.

The aggregate value of articles imported is shown by Table 3 to have increased from 1,312 million dollars in 1909 to 1,818 million in 1913; while the value of articles exported, as shown by Table 6, has increased from 1,638 million to 2,429 million dollars in the same period. Those desiring to learn the source of any one of the 500 classes of articles imported or the points of destination of the 500 classes of articles exported may procure the information upon application to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., who sells Table 3 and 6 of Commerce and Navigation of the United States for 1913 at the nominal sums of 30 and 35 cents, respectively.

RAMAPO LOSES AQUEDUCT SUIT

The suit of the Ramapo Water Company to tie up the Catskill aqueduct system on the ground that the city of New York and the board of water supply had broken its contract with the company to supply water to the city from the Ramapo mountain range was dismissed Wednesday by Judge Ward in the federal district court on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The Ramapo Company alleged that it was capitalized at $2,500,000 in 1887, and had paid $240,000 for land options in the watershed area, besides preparing maps of the region, and that in 1905 the legislature created the Catskill aqueduct commission and condemned the land in the drainage area covered by the plaintiff's maps.

The suit recalls the campaign waged against the "Ramapo Steal" after the company negotiated for a $5,000,000 annual contract with the city for its water supply. The breaking of the scheme a few years later never revealed the identity of the persons who were behind the Ramapo Company. It was charged that the $2,500,000 was passed around among powerful Tammany politicians.

In 1911 Justice Mills, in Westchester, denied the ownership of the head waters in the Catskills by the Ramapo Company. Last spring the company brought suit in the federal courts on the grounds that its constitutional rights had been violated.

Judge Ward held that the legislature had a right under the laws of 1905, to condemn the watershed lands for public purposes without violating the constitutional rights of corporate or individual rights involved.—New York Tribune.

SCHOOL GIRL KILLED.

Run Over by Automobile at Little Falls.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Little Falls, N. Y., June 18.—Tripping early along on her way to school, today, her books under her arms, Jennie Oberlie, 11 years old, was struck by an automobile owned and occupied by William L. Reid, of Schenectady, superintendent of the American Locomotive Works. The child was removed to a physician's office where she died within a few minutes. In the automobile with Mr. Reid were his two sons, William and Ralph. His chauffeur, Patrick Conan, was driving. The autoists were enroute to Schenectady from Ithaca where their sons were this week attending Cornell University.

According to the coroner's report, the street in Little Falls where she passed in front of the home then became confused and turned back. She was struck by a mid-guard and thrown under the automobile, the wheels passing over her neck, breaking it. Mr. Reid was not placed under arrest but remained at police headquarters while District Attorney Farrell made an investigation.

LOCAL ORCHESTRA FOR STAR COURSE

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. star course have taken a decided and gratifying departure this year in arranging their Star Course program for the coming season. They will give five entertainments of a most unusually high character, the tickets for the entire course being within the reach of all. For the February or middle entertainment, they have secured the Kingston Symphony Society which will give a "People's" orchestral concert. The orchestra will present the full number of musicians, over fifty, and will give a program, which while not as classical as their usual Symphony Society programs will offer the very best music, yet of a lighter and more familiar character. Their program will probably include the William Tell Overture, Madame Butterfly, Jewels of the Madonna, The Love of Three Kings, etc. The arrangement with the orchestra is of so unusual a character as to be of interest to the patrons of the Star Course and the people of Kingston. The Y. M. C. A. directors assume all expenses of the concert, which will be one as fine in its particular character as any ever given by this now appreciated orchestra. The orchestra on their part will make absolutely no charge for giving the concert, thus enabling the association directors to give to their patrons an evening of such music as is seldom heard in a city the size of Kingston and possessed of musical advantages far out-reaching our own. This plan promises to be of exceptional mutual benefit as well as pleasure. The other four numbers of the Star Course will be announced in the very near future, and will be found to be exceptionally worth while.

Message from the Blue Ridge.

A special meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church was held at the parish house on Tuesday, called particularly to hear a letter from the Rev. W. A. Allen, rector of the Episcopal Church of Waynesville, N. C., to which church the ladies of St. John's parish sent a missionary box this spring. In his letter, which was accompanied by pictures of both the school and church, Mr. Allen gave a most interesting description of the place, one of the highest peaks of the Blue mountains and of the people. Though ignorant and leading indeed a simple life, these people of Scotch and Irish descent of worth are found ready for all efforts to uplift them and the work among them is, therefore, especially encouraging. Mr. Allen expressed the appreciation and gratitude of his people for the box sent them and wished the women of St. John's Church all good things. After the reading of the letter and talking of the work, the meeting took up the question of next year's fair. Tentative dates of November 13 and 14 were considered and the ladies were asked to do such work for the fair during the summer months as they could. Both committees will be appointed later.

Great Poet's Splendid Eyes.

According to Trelawny no man had brighter eyes than Byron; they were gray, and fringed with long black lashes. Lady Blessington, writing of him a few months before his departure to Greece, adds that one eye was visibly larger than the other.

KINGSTON FIREMEN FORGET POLITICS

Rival Candidates for Mayor, Both Volunteer Firemen, Work Side by Side With Chamber of Commerce to Bring Convention Here in 1915.

All party differences and political difficulties were laid aside at the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association at Haverstraw Wednesday. As ex-Mayor Irwin escorted Mayor Canfield, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce Hoeft and President Connolly of the Common Council to seats of honor upon the convention platform, while the band of over 25 pieces rang out "Hail to the Chief." The gavel of President Parsells dropped at 10:30 a. m., and the convention was on. President Parsells thanked the convention for the large delegation that was present and asked that the general routine of business be disposed of as quickly as possible as matters of greater importance would engage the attention of the convention. The report of the board of directors was very short and was unanimously adopted and ordered to be placed on the minutes.

The minutes of the last convention were read by the secretary, Fred W. Bieber, and accepted as read. Four new companies were added to the association during the year and also a number of members had been added to the list of exempted firemen. The treasurer reported that $388.61 was on hand with the expenditures for this convention of approximately $427.12, leaving in the treasury the sum of $45.49.

The adding committee was unable at this time to make a full report, but stated after all expenditures for the 1914 convention were paid, there would still be a balance of over $1,000 in the treasury. This committee was given a month to arrange their report and have it spread on the minutes that will be finished later.

Robert McMann, member of the State Firemen's Association of New York, was present and delivered a short address. Mr. McMann was appointed by the State Firemen's Association to be present at the convention. The state body is very much indebted to the H. V. V. F. Association for the prominent men that they have given to the State Firemen's Association, said Mr. McMann. Such men as Judge Phillips and others too numerous to mention, who have come from the Hudson Valley, have been the men that have raised the standards of the state organizations to the present height. Mr. McMann said that without doubt the two per cent bill which was defeated by the legislature last year will be reintroduced this fall, and it should be the duty of such firemen to know the views of each candidate of his district for the legislature, and should vote for the man who would place his support to the bill.

Mr. McMann was then asked to give the firemen such rights and privileges as are given the veterans of the civil war and to have the constitution of the national convention amended so as to increase the standing of volunteer firemen. Mr. McMann then read a report of the firemen's home at Hudson, saying that a committee had visited the institution and found it working on a real business basis. Every inmate was interviewed and practically every one seemed contented and happy.

Mr. Powers, secretary of the State Firemen's Association, reported that $200 had been given last year by the Hudson Valley Firemen's convention held at Catskill in 1913 for the endowment fund and asked that a large amount be raised this year also. The state organization at the present time is worth about $575,650, which includes the home at Hudson valued at $140,000, with cash in the treasury of about $60,000, and the rest invested in good paying bonds. The motion was then carried that a hundred dollars be donated to the state home.

A number of ladies, the founders of the Women's Auxiliary for exempt firemen of Yonkers, were present and asked the co-operation of the men in the formation of ladies' auxiliary. Mrs. Smith made a short address stating the good work that was being done in Yonkers, and asked that similar organizations be founded over the state. This association is in no way connected with the women's suffrage but is a organization for the help of the wives of firemen. These ladies were escorted to the platform by Mayor Canfield and Ex-Mayor Irwin to the tune of "Here Comes the Bride."

Mayor Canfield was introduced and pictured to the convention the beautiful city located in the center of the Hudson Valley, and related the history of its growth from the early days of its settlement by the Dutch when it was named Wiltwyck, through the revolution and up to the present day. The mayor said that there were ten fire companies in Kingston composed of the most active young men that could be found, who were always ready to fight the flames whether it be the torch of the British, or the match of the incendiary, or the fire caused by accident or carelessness. Mr. Canfield after a few other remarks invited the convention to Kingston for 1915 and said the city would be theirs during their stay.

Dr. Connolly, president of the common council, said that there was just one thing that he was ashamed of, that was that he never was a fireman. He reiterated all that had been said by the mayor and also that Kingston had the reputation of getting what she wanted, so in behalf of the common council he not only invited them to come, but demanded that they appear in Kingston in 1915.

Secretary Hoeft of the Chamber of Commerce assured the convention that Kingston would welcome them with open arms, and that the men leaving their business to attend the convention was alone proof of the sincerity of their invitation, and that even Mayor Irwin representing the prohibition party would assure them that the big Ashokan dam would be filled with sparkling water and that there would be plenty for all the men that attend the convention. The motion was then carried that Kingston be the convention city for 1915.

Mr. Irwin in nominating Mr. Powers of Repsealer for president said that he also would assure the convention of a hearty welcome and that not only the sparkling water which floweth from the Ashokan dam, but also the sparkling grape juice from the vineyards would flow freely to those who desire it. Mr. Irwin then placed the name of his nominee before the convention, and he was unanimously elected. Mr. Fowler made a short speech thanking the convention for the office, and pledging himself to fulfill his duties to the best of his ability.

Seth Cole of Catskill was elected first vice president; James B. Osborn, second vice president; Patrick J. McCarthy, secretary; A. N. Keene, treasurer; J. H. Hand, member of board of directors, and Charles G. Myers, delegate to the state convention. All of the officers were unanimously elected.

After thanking the local committee for their hospitality the convention adjourned and the delegates marched to the big clambake which had been prepared for them. The big parade that will take place today is being attended by the Wiltwyck Hose Company of this city.

Physicians to Meet.

Dr. Frank Keator, president of the Ulster County Medical Society, has called a special meeting of the Kingston members of the society to be held at the city hall Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to discuss the proposed new sanitary code, and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance of all the physicians of the city affiliated with the society.

Not in Politics.

After all these statements have gone on the stand and told how they run their parties, every citizen will know the ins and outs of politics. "Yes," said the Practical Person, "but in politics you don't get anything by knowing the outs."

Mr. Knocker, Take the Stand.

The man who tells the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth is called a knocker.

Reincarnated.

The school as a civic center having become overcrowded, it occurred to some bright mind to advocate the use of the home as a civic center.

"The home is vacant so large a part of the day that it would seem that the highest efficiency would put it to some use other than as a possible place to sleep in at midnight."

This was immediately done, and the home began to come back. Thereupon the leading sociological writer wrote an article in which he proved again to the satisfaction of all that everything has a use.—Life.

Let's We Forget.

Now and then a horse has to run away, upset a car and break somebody's bones, just as, or reminding us that vehicle accidents do not begin with the introduction of the automobile.

Wisdom of Mohammed.

A man's true wealth is the good he does in this world. When he dies mortals will ask: What property has he left behind? But angels will inquire: What good deeds hast thou set before thee?—Mohammed.

Foolish Question.

Old Party—"Hey, there, boy, who are you throwing stones at?" Young Party (to companion in evil)—"Young Jim, keep up de good work; de old gent don't seem to know when he's hit."

FUNSTON BREAKS FOOD FAMINE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 18.—In a despatch to the war department today General Funston states that he has taken steps to relieve the shortage of food supplies at Vera Cruz. The despatch says:

"As military governor under martial law, I have, by decree, prohibited the exportation of food stuffs by sea from this port. It is intended that this prohibition shall be only temporary. Importers are going to take advantage of free entry to bring in large supplies. If they cannot export, they will almost certainly cut prices in order not to carry too heavy stocks and thus strain their credit and lose interest on the money invested. I believe this will solve the food problem and bring prices down. Some importers who have been holding supplies for speculative purposes are going to suffer loss as their goods are sold in stock paid duty, but they deserve it."

BEECHFORD.

Beechford, June 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Loren Buley of Kingston spent Sunday with Mrs. Buley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Winne.

Mrs. William Misner and son, Kenneth, of Pine Hill spent one day last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hasbrouck.

George Dummell of Orange, N. J., has been spending a few days with E. J. Hasbrouck.

The stream in this vicinity is full of fishermen. Some very nice trout have been caught.

Mrs. William Buley and daughter, Dorothy, spent Thursday in Kingston.

The Children's Day exercises of the Beechford Sunday school were held Sunday evening. A large crowd was in attendance and enjoyed a fine program. Much credit is due the organist, Mrs. J. A. Cregar, also Miss Grace Van Vleet, who assisted with her violin.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. William Buley, Mrs. J. A. Aitken and Andrew Weeks attended the funeral of Mr. Coons at Shokan on Tuesday.

The construction work on the New York boulevard is being rushed. A large force of men are employed by both companies.

We are not often treated to as much excitement as we have had during the past week. On Thursday, June 11, Edwin Every and Laura Klotz were married in Kingston. After a short trip they arrived home on Saturday evening. A large crowd of friends met them at the Cold Brook station with a good supply of rice and old shoes.

They were given an old fashioned serenade at the home of the groom by the men of the State Highway Construction Company, with whom Mr. Every is employed. Monday evening while they were visiting the bride's sister, Mrs. William Buley, another crowd of friends gave them a second serenade. After about fifteen minutes of the worst noise imaginable they were invited in and refreshments were served. All the many friends of the couple wish them a long and happy married life. Mrs. Edna Gross is visiting in New York.

The Hermance House has several guests.

Mrs. J. A. Cregar spent Tuesday in Phoenixia.

Miss Hazel Berry has gone to Hunter for the summer.

Oarsmen Are Fire Fighters.

The Wisconsin oarsmen proved themselves real fire fighters Wednesday evening when a patch of woods below their camp on the Elverhoj property at Milton caught fire from a spark from a West Shore locomotive. The Wisconsin camp is half a mile below Milton and when the woods were discovered to be afire the oarsmen quickly volunteered their services and forming a bucket brigade started to do battle to the flames. After a half-hour's hard work, the men succeeded in putting out the fire and then returned to their camp.

When the old Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz was staying at Holkham with Thomas Coke, then commonly known as "King of Norfolk," he boasted one evening at dinner that no man had ever dared to shoot at him and that if any one had ever attempted such a thing he would have shot the man dead on the spot.

The next day at the court the grand duke suddenly felt a shower of shot peppering his legs and, turning round in a fury to find whence it proceeded, saw William Coke with a gun leveled in his direction.

"I've got another muzzle ready," said William coolly. "Will you shoot?" From "The Life of Thomas Coke, Earl of Leicester."

Dalton's Clover Stick Work.

When Jack Dalton first broke into the Majors three years ago he faced Christy Mathewson and out of four trips to the plate landed four safeties. Then for good measure he touched Otis Crandall for another bingle, Crandall having relieved Mathewson in Dalton's inaugural game. Dalton soon afterward went to the International league. He returned to Brooklyn this year and on April 18 he met Mathewson again and took up the work where he left off three years before. He got three solid smashes off Christy and was robbed of a fourth by a spectacular stop by Stock. Evidently if they all pitched fadeaways Jack Dalton would bat 700.

New York Has Advantage.

Visiting teams are complaining of the unusual height of the pitcher's mound at the Polo grounds, in New York—which, it is claimed, gives the New York pitchers an unfair advantage.

'SLUGGING PITCHER ADDS MUCH STRENGTH

Otis Crandall of St. Louis Federal.

Have you ever noticed the unconscious, yet inexpressible, groan that invariably arises in grand stand and bleachers when a pitcher goes to bat in a pinch? Probably it is a close game, with one or more runners on the pathway, and it is the pitcher's turn at bat. Possibly he has been pitching such fine ball and the game is so close the manager fears to take him out and send in a pinch hitter.

Past performances prove the odds to be greatly against a pinch hitter coming through with the needed bingle.

Christy Mathewson of New York Giants.

If the pitcher is taken out and the pinch hitter fails, the substitute pitcher may prove to be "a mark" for the opposite batters and the game may be lost by what was intended to be a strategic move.

KNOW HOW HONUS COULD HIT

Kid Cole, Busher Outfielder, Carried Away by Theory Pitcher, Chases Imaginary Ball.

A group of the White Sox were standing in front of their hotel at Boston listening to Harry Sutor, the left-hander who pitched by theory. Sutor, never having seen Hans Wagner, was explaining how he would pitch to the Flying Dutchman.

"I'd drop two slow curves on the outside corner," he remarked. "He'd probably foul one. Then I'd shoot two high outside, wasting time. Then he'd expect me to come back with a slow twister on the out corner and I'd cross him with a fast one."

Cole, a busher outfielder, who had been listening, turned suddenly, springing across the street and stood looking upward an instant. With hanging head and dejected air he stroled back.

"What's the matter?" asked Sutor. "What were you doing?"

"I was chasing that fast one you pitched to Wagner," replied Cole.

UNCLE SAM'S HOPES PINNED TO VILLA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 18.—Gen. Pancho Villa now is the hope of the Wilson administration in saving the mediation negotiations from total collapse and the overthrow of Gen. Carranza is said to be very welcome news to President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

It was made clear at the White House today that President Wilson has the highest confidence in Villa and that the military leader will agree to the proposal for an armistice and enter the mediation conference as soon as he becomes the supreme commander of the Constitutionalists.

There is open rejoicing among administration officials over the reported downfall of Carranza, who it is well understood, never has been genuinely friendly toward the United States, even when it was recognized that this nation was his sole backer and supporter.

Although optimism as to the success of mediation is not as strong at the White House as it was three days ago, there is hope that developments in Northern Mexico within the past 24 hours will go far towards preventing a rupture of the negotiations at this time.

Vardon and Other Golfers Far Ahead of Him.

Prestwick, Scotland, June 18.—Hope that Francis Oumet, open golf champion of the United States, might annex the British open title disappeared this afternoon. As a result of 36 holes of play in the British tournament Oumet had a total of 165 while Harry Vardon, the English professional, had only 150.

Several other Englishmen were far ahead of Oumet and Americans who came here to watch the tourney admitted that only a miracle could let the young Massachusetts star win. Only 36 more holes are to be played.

Twelve thousand spectators watched the play in the second round of the first half this afternoon. The first 18 holes were played this morning.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 18.—Most of the issues in which there is a strong international speculative interest showed gains at the opening of the stock market today. Amalgamated Copper began at 70 1/2 for a gain of 1/2 and then went to 71 1/2. United States Steel Common was unchanged on its first transaction, but within twenty minutes had advanced 3/4. A better tone was shown in Western Union, which had been under pressure for two days. This issue began at 59 1/2 for an advance of 1/4 and soon was selling around sixty. Mexican Petroleum, which has been under strong pressure as a result of the reported break between Villa and Carranza, showed a better tone. It soon recovered its initial loss of 1/4. European markets were more cheerful and this was another factor to help the New York stock market. Gains ranging from fractions to nearly one point were scored by the following stocks during the first half hour: American Can, Canadian Pacific, Utah Copper, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Erie and C. & O. American Tel. Tel. opened 1/4 lower but quickly recovered and made a net gain. The curb was listless but the trend was toward a higher price.

Noon.—Although there were no important changes in leading issues in the late forenoon a better tone was shown. Western Union advanced 1/4 to 60 1/4. Reading rose 1/4, an advance of 3/4. Amalgamated Copper, Canadian Pacific and a few other important issues failed to share in the upward movement. Call money loaning at 1 1/4.

The New York stock market closed dull. Governments unchanged, other bonds steady.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Nellie Jane Ellsworth, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Ellsworth, to Daniel George Bigler, both of Port Ewen. The wedding will take place on Tuesday, June 30, at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride.

The last meeting of the Senior order of the Knights of Methodism was held Wednesday night at Wiltwyck Inn, and was followed by a banquet prepared by Miss Kenney. Reports of the committee were given and approved. The following officers were elected for next year: Chief, Clarence Schoonmaker; assistant chief, Arthur Quimby; scribe, O. Roy Green; purser, Vernon Husson. Speeches were made by Dr. Cookman and others that were present.

Niece-Johnston.
Miss Lena Dunham Johnston and William Stanley Niece, both of this city, were quietly married at the home of the bride, No. 768 Broadway, Wednesday evening by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. They were unattended and only the immediate families were present. The wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Jarman. Mr. and Mrs. Niece left town later in the evening and upon the return from their honeymoon will reside in Albany.

Harlow-Sadlier.
Archibald Harlow and Miss Jeanette Sadlier were married on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Walden by the Rev. T. G. Lossie. The bride was given away by her father, Charles Sadlier, cashier of the Walden Savings Bank. The maid of honor was Miss Beatrice Hurd of Newburgh, and the bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Carter of Waterbury, Conn., Miss Eoline Spearman of Sharon, Pa., Miss Marjorie Glover of Washingtonville, and Miss Ada Varcoe of Walden. The best man was Harry H. Slaughter of Walden, and the ushers were C. Fairbanks of Springfield, Mass., William K. Snyder of Newburgh, George A. K. Sutton of Kingsland, N. J., and C. Fred Fowler of Walden. Mr. and Mrs. Harlow will reside at Springfield, Mass., where the groom is employed by the Bosch Magneto Company.

Black-Harmon.

A pretty wedding took place at the Methodist Church on the evening of June 4, at Troy, Alabama, when Miss Ida Mae Harmon and James Henderson Black were united in marriage. The handsome edifice, which has been admired for its architectural magnificence, was transformed into a veritable garden of flowers. Prior to the ceremony, there was an inspiring musical program by Mrs. Sam A. Williams, organist, and the choir. The bride party entered as follows: Ushers, Messrs. E. K. Windham, Melly Boyd, Peter Black, of Troy, and Connor Samford of Montgomery. They were followed by the ribbon bearers, little belles and beaux of the future, the Misses Katherine Hobbs of Montgomery and Imena Allison of Troy, and Masters Richard Henderson and Fox Harmon. Next came the maids and matrons of honor, the Misses Annette Murphree, Helen Sanders, Helen Bashinsky, Mrs. Fletcher Harmon, Mrs. W. H. Allison and Mrs. E. K. Windham. The Misses Elizabeth Gellerstedt and Margaret Black strewed flowers in the pathway of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Roslyn Rust of Montgomery, formerly of Troy. The bride entered with her brother, Fletcher Harmon, who gave his sister in marriage. As the bride entered, approaching from the main aisle at the east, the groom and his best man, Joe Kirven Brantley, entered from the pastor's study. With the formation of the bridal party there was presented perhaps one of the most beautiful marriage scenes ever witnessed in Troy. Dr. Anderson, the officiating pastor, using the words of the Holy Scriptures, solemnized the ceremony. During the ceremony the notes of "Traumer's" fell softly from the organ. As the party retired the choir sang Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus. The bride looked pretty in her wedding gown of white crepe meteor over satin. It was beautifully draped in real lace and hand embroidered in tiny seed pearls. Her veil was of elaborate bridal veiling made in the cap style, mounted back of the veiling wreath. Her bouquet was a shower of valley lilies, bride's roses and fern. Her only ornament was a diamond sunburst. The bride is one of Troy's most beautiful and charming young women. She is a typical brunette, which has won for her innumerable friends. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harmon. The groom is a progressive young business man, being connected with the Henderson-Black Company. He is a son of Mayor and Mrs. Walter C. Black and a grandson of the late Monroe Henderson. Both bride and groom are graduates of the college in Troy, the groom afterwards attending the University of Alabama. Mr. and Mrs. Black are now the guests at the home of their uncle, Abel Black, on the Rosendale road, where they are receiving the congratulations of their friends, who have the pleasure of knowing them. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the residence of the groom's parents on Montgomery street, Troy, Alabama.

EMPRESS STEERING GEAR WENT WRONG

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Quebec, June 18.—The first real sensation in the judicial inquiry into the Empress of Ireland disaster came today when Attorney C. S. Haight of New York, one of the lawyers, representing the owners of the collier Storstad, announced that he had information that the steering gear of the Empress was out of order at the time of the tragedy.

Lord Mersey, chairman of the commission investigating the tragedy, gave Haight an opportunity to address the court of inquiry and the lawyer said:

"Last night, a man representing himself to be the quartermaster of the Empress, called me on the telephone and told me that the steering gear of the liner was in bad condition. He said that on the night before the disaster he had been at the wheel of the ship and that the steering gear had been disarranged for five minutes."

Mr. Haight said that he immediately got in touch with Alexander Johnson, deputy minister of marine, and other officials of the government and persuaded the informant to tell him the story. The man said his name was Golway and that he had served as quartermaster on the Empress of Ireland.

"Golway said that the Canadian Pacific line, owners of the Empress, had offered him free passage to England. Haight went on 'but a fellow seaman had advised him to remain here and give his testimony.'"

"Do you mean to insinuate that the Canadian Pacific line was trying to spirit this man out of the country?" asked Lord Mersey.

"I regret that I am compelled to think so," Haight replied.

Golway was summoned to appear in court later in the day and in the meantime William Sampson, chief engineer of the Empress of Ireland, was called to the stand. He denied there was anything wrong with the steering gear of the Empress of Ireland.

UNCLE SAM'S HOPES PINNED TO VILLA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 18.—Gen. Pancho Villa now is the hope of the Wilson administration in saving the mediation negotiations from total collapse and the overthrow of Gen. Carranza is said to be very welcome news to President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

It was made clear at the White House today that President Wilson has the highest confidence in Villa and that the military leader will agree to the proposal for an armistice and enter the mediation conference as soon as he becomes the supreme commander of the Constitutionalists.

There is open rejoicing among administration officials over the reported down-fall of Carranza, who it is well understood, never has been genuinely friendly toward the United States, even when it was recognized that this nation was his sole backer and supporter.

Although optimism as to the success of mediation is not as strong at the White House as it was three days ago, there is hope that developments in Northern Mexico within the past 24 hours will go far towards preventing a rupture of the negotiations at this time.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 18.—Most of the issues in which there is a strong international speculative interest showed gains at the opening of the stock market today. Amalgamated Copper began at 70 1/2 for a gain of 1/2 and then went to 71 1/2. United States Steel Common was unchanged on its first transaction, but within twenty minutes had advanced 1/2. A better tone was shown in Western Union, which had been under pressure for two days. This issue began at 59 1/2 for an advance of 1/2 and soon was selling around sixty. Mexican Petroleum, which has been under strong pressure as a result of the reported break between Villa and Carranza, showed a better tone. It soon recovered its initial loss of 1/2. European markets were more cheerful and there was another factor to help the New York stock market. Gains ranging from fractions to nearly one point were scored by the following stocks during the first half hour: American Canadian Pacific, Utah Copper, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Erie and C. & O. American Tel. Tel. opened 1/4 lower but quickly recovered and made a net gain. The curb was steady. Americans in London were restless but the trend was toward a higher price level.

Noon.—Although there were no important changes in leading issues in the late forenoon a better tone was shown. Western Union advanced 1/2 to 60 1/2. Reading rose 1/2 to 61 1/2. Steel common held at 61 1/2, an advance of 3/4. Amalgamated Copper Canadian Pacific and a few other important issues failed to share in the upward movement. Call money loaning at 1 1/4.

The New York stock market closed dull. Governments unchanged, other bonds steady.

A pretty wedding took place at the Methodist Church on the evening of June 4, at Troy, Alabama, when Miss Ida Mae Harmon and James Henderson Black were united in marriage. The handsome edifice, which has been admired for its architectural magnificence, was transformed into a veritable garden of flowers. Prior to the ceremony, there was an inspiring musical program by Mrs. Sam W. Williams, organist, and the choir. The bride party entered as follows: Ushers, Messrs. E. K. Windham, Mell Boyd, Peter Black, of Troy, and Connor Samford of Montgomery. They were followed by the ribbon bearers, little bellies and bouquets of the future, the Misses Katherine Hobbie of Montgomery and Imena Allison of Troy, and Masters Richard Henderson and Fox Harmon. Next came the maids and matrons of honor, the Misses Annette Murphree, Helen Sanders, Helen Bashinsky, Helen Fletcher Harmon, Mrs. W. H. Allison and Mrs. E. K. Windham. The Misses Elizabeth Gellert and Margaret Black followed in flowers in the pathway of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Roslyn Rush of Montgomery, formerly of Troy. The bride entered with her brother, Fletcher Harmon, who gave his sister in marriage. As the bride entered, approaching from the main aisle at the east, the groom and his best man, Joe Kirven Brantley, entered from the pastor's study. With the formation of the party, the bride was presented perhaps one of the most beautiful marriage scenes ever witnessed in Troy. Dr. Anderson Purdy McFerrin, pastor of the M. E. Church, officiated, using the notes of "Traumerel" fell softly from the organ. As the party retired the choir sang Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus. The bride looked pretty in her wedding gown of white crepe meteor over satin. It was beautifully draped in lace and hand embroidered in tiny seed pearls. Her veil was of elaborate bridal veiling made in the cap style, with the coronet of the veiling mounted back of the orange blossom wreath. Her bouquet was a shower of valley lilies, bride's roses and fern. Her only ornament was a diamond sunburst. The bride is one of Troy's most beautiful and charming young women. She is a typical brunette. She has a sunny disposition, which has won for her innumerable friends. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Harmon. The groom is a progressive young business man, being connected with the Henderson-Black Company. He is a son of Mayor and Mrs. Walter C. Black and a grandson of the late Monroe Henderson. Both bride and groom are graduates of the college in Troy, the groom afterwards attending the University of Alabama. Mr. and Mrs. Black are now the guests at the home of their uncle, Abel Black, on the Rosendale road, where they are receiving the congratulations of their friends, who have the pleasure of knowing them. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the residence of the groom's parents on Montgomery street, Troy, Alabama.

EMPRESS STEERING GEAR WENT WRONG

Quebec, June 18.—The first real sensation in the judicial inquiry into the Empress of Ireland disaster came today when Attorney C. S. MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 18.—A baseball game won in April or May counts just as much as one that's garnered in September or October, but a bunch of games won in the early part of the season seem to handicap a team's chances for the pennant.

It has been the almost invariable rule in baseball that the teams that got a big lead at the outset hit the chutes later on and skidded off into some remote position in the standing of the clubs.

The Pirates and Tigers got away to a fine start during the first month of this season and then they crumbled. The pace-making had been too hard. Later on they may do a come-back but the law of baseball's past seems to forbid it.

The Cincinnati Reds "blew" themselves to a nice lead in the first month of 1914—and then they cracked. The Brooklyn Dodgers zipped along at a merry clip through the first four weeks in 1912, and just when the Brooklynites were dreaming world series dreams the upset came, and the Dodgers finished in the second division.

Back in 1905 the Naps led by over 100 points until June time. And then the reversal came and they ended the season at the tail end of the first division.

The Tigers lost only two of the first 20 games played in 1911 and looked powerful enough to keep it up. Then the boomerang connected on its homeward journey and the Tigers were never again in the fight. The Giants harpooned a 16 game lead in 1912 and then the game winning machinery went out of order. The Cubs came thundering along and carved down most of the lead and looked good to jump into first place when they too began to skid. This gave the Giants a chance to get their sea legs again and they slipped under the October wire ahead of the field. But even with that 16 game lead it was a close squeak.

Is this early spurt stuff a hoodoo?

There's much ado about the won pitching device that was invented by a Princeton personage. There's nothing new in that as we view the situation. Haven't we had "won men" pitchers for the past 10 years? Nor can we see anything new in the fact that this Princeton "pitcher" has no head. There are a lot of pitchers in the big leagues today who are similarly equipped—or, rather, non-equipped.

The reason that there is less interest in the Federal League race than in the American or National, according to some folks, is this—

"What are the Feds going to do with the pennant when it's won?" Which is a pretty good reason at that. The interest in the American and National Leagues always is keen because of the world series that follows the end of the regular season. In the case of the Feds they can't get into a world series—not this year, at least.

One of the sport writers who is extremely friendly toward organized baseball and who has been predicting a horrible end for the Feds, is just now borrowing more trouble for the Gilmore crowd. Quite recently he discovered that if the Feds sign up Walter Johnson, the "Speed King," at $100,000 for a three year period, "they will be taking desperate chances."

He figures that Johnson's arm might go on the frit before those three years are over and what good would he be? It's a cinch, however, that if there wasn't a Federal League and if some organized club owner bought Johnson paying even $150,000 for him, this very same writer would be loudest in his praise of the magnet's shrewd business judgment and it's also a cinch that he wouldn't be so worried about Johnson's arm falling.

The Feds are said to be retaliating for the action of organized baseball in sending nose counters into the parks. They have hired nose counters of their own and these mathematicians are engaged in adding up the total of persons who enter the organized parks and turning their additions over to the Federal League officials for comparison with the attendance figures given out by the organized people. It is said that the reports show big discrepancies in the attendance report of the nose counters and those given out by the clubs as estimates. But who cares?

Members of the Giants, Athletics and a few other teams that still nourish pennant winning hopes, are wondering if the general apathy toward baseball this year on the part of the fans will extend to the world series. It would be a cruel blow for the world series players if it did, for they usually count on about $3,500 for their share if they win and $2,500 or so, if they lose.

If the world series attendance shows a decrease to correspond with the general decrease all over both circuits this year the boys may have to struggle along during the winter with just half of what they have been hoping to get.

A PAGE FROM A HISTORY WRITTEN IN 1950.

THE ERA OF THE GREAT SOB.

By Hon. Stanley E. Bowdler, Member of Congress, First District of Ohio.

The period between 1910 and 1925, on its sociological side, was characterized by rapidity, sentimentality, and general "slush." Societies, leagues, clubs and movements of every sort were formed, each bustling about and producing an appearance of business and each burdening the mail with its literature, asking alms for its peculiar aims. Each proposed to save society from this or that evil due to society's alleged misdeeds. But the cardinal need of each was cash, and with each year the cry for cash grew louder. The theory of the government had been that a free man, in a free state, freely instructed, would be immune to old-world evils, and would care for his own redemption, not only from ignorance, but even from the results of original sin. These societies, however, disdained that theory. They insisted (implicitly) that this theory was an error. They made much use of the quotation, "Am I my brother's keeper?" which, though it was the unanswered question of Cain, a murderer, was treated by everybody as a declaration of principle, which it assuredly was not. "Go, and sin no more," though a Scriptural cure for sin, was deemed to harsh. The journals of the day, in large part, found it profitable to support this unctuous spirit.

Society's duty to prostitutes, was a frequently recurring theme. Of course, the essential holiness of the mission of these societies would not permit of segregation. Nothing short of elimination would do. It was loudly asserted that society made prostitutes, though a large portion of society in no wise contributed to their delinquency. Nothing was said of personal moral responsibility, which must be the basis of any enduring civilization.

In the history of one single municipality (New York city), segregation and elimination were alternately tried no less than 17 times. Entire political campaigns were run and run again on some phase of this aged problem, and all without results. Mankind seemed utterly unable to learn anything on the subject, though their shelves groaned with books telling of the experiences of the past.

The loose thinking of that period allowed any claim to pass muster, provided it was made loud enough. Though the age boasted of its culture, no one distinguished between a condition and a cause; for a man to murder me I surely must be living; but certainly my life is not the cause of my own death—as Burke has well put it. Society is a condition of prostitution, but not a cause—at least two persons of opposite sex being socially necessary to that state. Such trite truths were not comprehended.

The rapid spirit of the epoch could not conceive of a woman becoming a prostitute through sheer love of it, or through vanity, or laziness.

There was abroad in the land, as part of the movement, a theory that all men were natively good; and that when bad, their badness was due to environment. To be sure, in their churches they prayed rather regularly. "We have erred and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep; we have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts," etc.; but the theory of this declaration, which savored of a deal of natural wickedness, was uniformly rejected. It was, accordingly, not conceivable that prostitution was actually enjoyed by a considerable number of women, for such a conception would not serve journalistic purposes. The purpose of all this was to produce a sob over these women, and the sobbing was very general. The papers and magazines sobbed. Societies sobbed. The feminine suffrage movement sobbed, claiming that it would finally terminate prostitution by its votes; but it was not terminated.

There was during the period (1915-1920) a great waning over the debtor class. The age was wasteful beyond imagination. Money was spent upon every conceivable comfort, regardless of the future. Emulation was on every hand. The women were especially lavish in their expenditures upon their persons. Never in the history of the race were women so adorned. The family credit was freely used. Credit was thrust at one in alluring advertisements. Thousands of apparently wealthy men at the end of the year had nothing to show but insurance premium receipts. All this brought into being a huge debtor class. When the bubble burst, the suffering was most acute. A great sobbing over debtors ensued; and there was no effort to distinguish between the righteous debtor, caught unawares by harsh circumstances, and the culpable debtor. The sobbing was general. Certain political parties sobbed about this condition, and each vied with the others in offering legislative schemes to make debt pleasant. The Solomonic proverb that the "borrower is servant to the lender," was shelved for a time, while political parties endeavored to make the lender servant to the borrower.

While the age was greatly devoted to wealth-getting, and talked much on the right of property, yet it sobbed greatly over the criminals who violated the rights; and it proceeded to make imprisonment as pleasant as possible. This sobbing over criminals reached a point where it was not at all uncommon for convicted persons to be given dinners and loving cups on the eve of their departure for the penitentiary; and frequent were the cases where large bodies of men would petition to have indictments against thieves dismissed, if they happened to be prominent.

In the general sobbing no phase of vice was overlooked. Bastards achieved high consideration. A movement was started, chiefly by spinsters, to give bastards a share of the inheritance. It was claimed that the movement was for the public weal. But finally the good wives and children found the family inheritance so much imperiled, and the family name so much menaced, that there was a counter movement among women, which canceled the spinsters' efforts.

A condition was finally reached where the only persons guaranteed lives of serenity were prostitutes, criminals, incompetents and delinquents of every class. These were furnished institutions pleasing to the most fastidious tastes. Of course the burden to the honest citizen was enormous. He was made to feel that the object of his life was to support, without murmur, the violator of law, order and decency. And this he was, and he believed chiefly by perceiving, gifted in speech, who themselves were without property and who actually paid no taxes. But the honest, hard-working, law-abiding citizens were finally disillusioned. A curious illumination overtook these citizens early in 1920. While the air was vibrant with segregation, elimination, emasculation, eugenics, hygienics, certification, and all the big words descriptive of this sobbing movement, he, the honest citizen, found that he was suffering from expropriation; and he suddenly determined to get from under the load, and allow the long-interrupted evolutionary course to again have its way. This citizen, who was carrying the whole load, poked his head out of the busy little world of his life, and took a quick survey of what he had unwittingly been harrowed to, and he proceeded to uprise in what turned out to be a great uprising. This evolutionary revolution, to be treated in our next chapter, fully terminated what came to be universally called "The Era of the Great Sob."

Practical Fruit Growing and Canning Investment

A close corporation of New York business men whose character and standing will be appreciated on acquaintance, have successfully established a 200 ACRE FRUIT FARM AND CANNING PLANT near Saugerties—selling products DIRECT TO CONSUMERS AND RETAIL STORES in New York City.

The canning plant was put into operation last year and met with prompt success. THIS SEASON'S OUTPUT HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD IN ADVANCE and there is every indication that the business will grow to large proportions. It is therefore deemed advisable to purchase and plant an adjoining farm and to increase the size of the plant, and to this end the capital has been increased $20,000. A portion of this increase has been subscribed by the present members. For business reasons it is desired to have a number of local people of standing interested in the company and the balance is therefore offered to Ulster County growers and business men at the original price or investment cost per acre, the same as paid by present members, including officers and directors, when the project was started two years ago.

The fruit farm and canning plant are owned and operated as a whole, ownership being represented by shares of stock apportioned in blocks equivalent to 5, 10 and 20 acre interests.

Cost of each 5-acre interest, including planting and care, also pro rata interest in the canning plant, $1,280, payable one-third cash, balance quarterly or semi-annually covering a period of two years.

The investment in no way resembles what is ordinarily known as an orchard-planted-and-cared-for proposition. We are fruit and vegetable growers, shippers and canners—not promoters. The Company has no land for sale.

Over 12,000 apple and pear trees were planted two years ago and are now under scientific horticultural care. 10 acres of currants and 3 acres of strawberries are interplanted between the rows of young trees, and about 70 acres of tomatoes and sweet corn have been put out this year to fill contracts for canned goods.

When the main orchard comes into bearing our fruit will be marketed, attractively packed, direct to retail dealers and large consumers THROUGH OUR OWN AGENT IN NEW YORK, independent of commission men. In the meantime the Canning Plant will pay better than ordinary interest on the entire investment. THIS YEAR NET EARNINGS SHOULD EXCEED 12% AND SHOULD INCREASE SUBSTANTIALLY EACH YEAR.

For further details, or personal interview by appointment, address J. O. BRUBAKER, Secretary, Saugerties, N. Y.

Which is a pretty good reason at that. The interest in the American and National Leagues always is keen because of the world series that follows the end of the regular season. In the case of the Feds they can't get into a world series—not this year, at least.

One of the sport writers who is extremely friendly toward organized baseball and who has been predicting a horrible end for the Feds, is just now borrowing more trouble for the Gilmore crowd. Quite recently he discovered that if the Feds sign up Walter Johnson, the "Speed King," at $100,000 for a three year period, "they will be taking desperate chances." He figures that Johnson's arm might go on the frit before those three years are over and what good would he be? It's a cinch, however, that if there wasn't a Federal League and if some organized club owner bought Johnson paying even $150,000 for him, this very same writer would be loudest in his praise of the magnet's shrewd business judgment and it's also a cinch that he wouldn't be so worried about Johnson's arm falling.

The Feds are said to be retaliating for the action of organized baseball in sending nose counters into the parks. They have hired nose counters of their own and these mathematicians are engaged in adding up the total of persons who enter the organized parks and turning their additions over to the Federal League officials for comparison with the attendance figures given out by the organized people. It is said that the reports show big discrepancies in the attendance report of the nose counters and those given out by the clubs as estimates. But who cares?

Members of the Giants, Athletics and a few other teams that still nourish pennant winning hopes, are wondering if the general apathy toward baseball this year on the part of the fans will extend to the world series. It would be a cruel blow for the world series players if it did, for they usually count on about $3,500 for their share if they win and $2,500 or so, if they lose. If the world series attendance shows a decrease to correspond with the general decrease all over both circuits this year the boys may have to struggle along during the winter with just half of what they have been hoping to get.

A PAGE FROM A HISTORY WRITTEN IN 1950.

THE ERA OF THE GREAT SOB.

By Hon. Stanley E. Bowdle, Member of Congress, First District of Ohio.
The period between 1910 and 1925, on its sociological side, was characterized by vapidity, sentimentality, and general "slush." Societies, leagues, clubs and movements of every sort were formed, each bustling about and producing an appearance of business and each burdening the mail with its literature, asking aims for its peculiar aims. Each proposed to save society from this or that evil due to society's alleged misdeeds. But the cardinal need of each was cash, and with each year the cry for cash grew louder. The theory of the government had been that a free man, in a free state, freely instructed, would be immune to old-world evils, and would care for his own redemption, not only from ignorance, but even from the results of original sin. These societies, however, disdained that theory. They insisted (implicitly) that this theory was an error. They made much use of the quotation, "Am I my brother's keeper?" which, though it was the unanswered question of Cain, a murderer, was treated by everybody as a declaration of principle, which it assuredly was not. "Go, and sin no more," though a Scriptural cure for sin, was deemed to harsh. The journals of the day, in large part, found it profitable to support this unctuous spirit.

Society's duty to prostitutes was frequently recurring theme. Of course, the essential holiness of the mission of these societies would not permit of segregation. Nothing short of elimination would do. It was loudly asserted that society made prostitutes, though a large portion of society in no wise contributed to their delinquency. Nothing was said of personal moral responsibility, which must be the basis of any enduring civilization.

In the history of one single municipality (New York city), segregation and elimination were alternately tried no less than 17 times. Entire political campaigns were run and run again on some phase of this age-old problem, and all without results. Mankind seemed utterly unable to learn anything on the subject, though their shelves groaned with books telling of the experiences of the past.

The loose thinking of that period allowed any claim to pass muster, provided it was made loud enough. Though the age boasted of its culture, no one distinguished between a condition and a cause; for a man to murder me I surely must be living; but certainly my life is not the cause of my own death—as Burke has well put it. Society is a condition of prostitution, but not a cause—at least two persons of opposite sex being socially necessary to that state. Such trite truths were not comprehended.

The vapid spirit of the epoch could not conceive of a woman becoming a prostitute through sheer love of it, or through vanity, or laziness.

There was abroad in the land, as part of the movement, a theory that all men were natively good; and that when bad, their badness was due to environment. To be sure, in their churches they prayed rather regularly. "We have erred and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep; we have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts," etc.; but the theory of this declaration, which savored of a deal of natural wickedness, was uniformly rejected. It was, accordingly, not conceivable that prostitution was actually enjoyed by a considerable number of women, for such a conception would not serve journalistic purposes. The purpose of all this was to produce a sob over these women, and the sobbing was very general. The papers and magazines sobbed. Societies sobbed. The feminine suffrage movement sobbed, claiming that it would finally terminate prostitution by its votes; but it was not terminated.

There was during the period (1915-1920) a great waning over the debtor class. The age was wasteful beyond imagination. Money was spent upon every conceivable comfort, regardless of the future. Emulation was on every hand. The women were especially lavish in their expenditures upon their persons. Never in the history of the race were women so adorned. The family credit was freely used. Credit was thrust at one in alluring advertisements. Thousands of apparently wealthy men at the end of the year had nothing to show but insurance premium receipts. All this brought into being a huge debtor class. When the bubble burst, the suffering was most acute. A great sobbing over debtors ensued; and there was no effort to distinguish between the righteous debtor, caught unawares by harsh circumstances, and the culpable debtor. The sobbing was general. Certain political parties sobbed about this condition, and each vied with the others in offering legislative schemes to make debt pleasant. The Solomon proverb that the "borrower is servant to the lender," was shelved for a time, while political parties endeavored to make the lender servant to the borrower.

While the age was greatly devoted to wealth-getting, and talked much on the right of property, yet it sobbed greatly over the criminals who violated those rights; and it proceeded to make imprisonment as pleasant as possible. This sobbing over criminals reached a point where it was not at all uncommon for convicted persons to be given dinners and loving cups on the eve of their departure for the penitentiary; and frequent were the cases where large bodies of men would petition to have indictments against thieves dismissed, if they happened to be prominent.

In the general sobbing no phase of vice was overlooked. Bastards achieved high consideration. A movement was started, chiefly by spinsters, to give bastards a share of the inheritance. It was claimed that the movement was for the public weal. But finally the good wives and children found the family inheritance so much imperiled, and the family name so much menaced, that there was a counter movement among women, which canceled the spinsters' efforts.

A condition was finally reached where the only persons guaranteed lives of serenity were prostitutes, criminals, incompetents and delinquents of every class. These were furnished institutions pleasing to most fastidious tastes. Of course the burden to the honest citizen was enormous. He was made to feel that the object of his life was to support, without murmur, the violators of law, order and decency. And this he was made to believe chiefly by persons, gifted in speech, who themselves were without property and who actually paid no taxes. But the honest, hard-working, law-abiding citizens were finally disillusioned. A curious illumination overtook these citizens early in 1920. While the air was vibrant with segregation, elimination, emasculation, eugenics, hygienics, certification, and all the big words descriptive of this sobbing movement, the honest citizen, forced that he was suffering from expropriation; and he suddenly determined to get from under the load, and allow the long-interrupted evolutionary course to again have its way. This citizen, who was carrying the whole load, poked his head out of the busy little world of his life, and took a quick survey of what he had unwittingly been harassed to, and he proceeded to uprise in what turned out to be a great uprising. This evolutionary revolution, to be treated in our next chapter, fully terminated what came to be universally called "The Era of the Great Sob."

Practical Fruit Growing and Canning Investment

A close corporation of New York business men whose character and standing will be appreciated on acquaintance, have successfully established a 200 ACRE FRUIT FARM AND CANNING PLANT near Saugerties—selling products DIRECT TO CONSUMERS AND RETAIL STORES in New York City.

The canning plant was put into operation last year and met with prompt success. THIS SEASON'S OUTPUT HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD IN ADVANCE and there is every indication that the business will grow to large proportions. It is therefore deemed advisable to purchase and plant an adjoining farm and to increase the size of the plant, and to this end the capital has been increased $20,000. A portion of this increase has been subscribed by the present members. For business reasons it is desired to have a number of local people of standing interested in the company and the balance is therefore offered to Ulster County growers and business men at the original price or investment cost per acre, the same as paid by present members, including officers and directors, when the project was started two years ago.

The fruit farm and canning plant are owned and operated as a whole, ownership being represented by shares of stock apportioned in blocks equivalent to 5, 10 and 20 acre interests.

Cost of each 5-acre interest, including planting and care, also pro rata interest in the canning plant, $1,280, payable one-third cash, balance quarterly or semi-annually covering a period of two years.

The investment in no way resembles what is ordinarily known as an orchard-planted-and-cared-for proposition. We are fruit and vegetable growers, shippers and canners—not promoters. The Company has no land for sale.

Over 12,000 apple and pear trees were planted two years ago and are now under scientific horticultural care. 10 acres of currants and 3 acres of strawberries are interplanted between the rows of young trees, and about 70 acres of tomatoes and sweet corn have been put out this year to fill contracts for canned goods.

When the main orchard comes into bearing our fruit will be marketed, attractively packed, direct to retail dealers and large consumers, THROUGH OUR OWN AGENT IN NEW YORK, independent of commission men. In the meantime the Canning Plant will pay better than ordinary interest on the entire investment. THIS YEAR NET EARNINGS SHOULD EXCEED 12% AND SHOULD INCREASE SUBSTANTIALLY EACH YEAR.

INSPECTION OF PIG PENS

Belligerent Ellsworth's Attitude Toward Health Officers May Result in Kingston Having a Policewoman.

Abel Ellsworth's pigs on the Lucas turnpike are again disturbing the serenity of the board of health, and gave the members of the sanitary committee, who have been dubbed the pig committee owing to its activities in that direction, a very strenuous afternoon Monday when the committee in company with Health Officer L. K. Stelle, and Dr. Emerick and Mr. Carlo, who are health officer and secretary respectively of the town of Ulster board of health, made a joint inspection of Ellsworth's pigs as the result of the number of complaints lodged with them in regard to the odor. Lawyer Frank Merritt of Kingston also accompanied the party on its tour of inspection representing some of the neighbors who had lodged the complaints.

Mr. Ellsworth it was stated had made remarks in regard to what he would do to Dr. Stelle if he ever stepped out of the city limits into the town of Ulster and that morning Dr. Stelle took precaution to be sworn in as deputy sheriff of Ulster county. Thus armed with authority of the law the doctor had no hesitation in accepting the challenge thrown down by Mr. Ellsworth. The party made the trip in two automobiles.

No Athlete But Could Lick Doc.

When the party reached Mr. Ellsworth's premises they alighted from the automobiles and started to make an investigation.

Mr. Ellsworth appeared and stepping in front of Dr. Stelle said "I am not scientific or an athlete but I think I can lick you."

At this juncture his wife appeared and grasping Abel by the arm she swung him to one side and said "Neither am I scientific or an athlete but I can lick the doctor."

The other members of the party thought at first that they were going to witness something especially good in the fistic art but Dr. Stelle who is not only a good doctor but a strategist of no mean order pleasantly remarked that there was going to be no disorder and that he did not believe the Ellsworths were going to try to lick him for the simple reason that he had been appointed a deputy sheriff and if they started any trouble he would place them both under arrest.

Inspection Then Proceeded.

After a few warm words the party then proceeded to inspect the premises and the Kingston delegation were pleasantly surprised to find that for once at least the Ellsworth pigs were not boarding in the city but had gone to the country to spend their vacation and were all lodged in the town of Ulster.

Mr. McBride one of the sanitary committee acknowledged that Ellsworth's pig pens were in the best condition that he had seen them but they were still far from ideal. The garbage fed the pigs threw off an odor said Mr. McBride that could be plainly smelled at least a quarter of a mile.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Ellsworth was not keeping his pigs in the city limits it placed the matter squarely up to the authorities of the town of Ulster to get busy and make Mr. Ellsworth clean up.

Still More Pigs.

Mr. Ellsworth after the inspection had proceeded for some time wanted to know why he was always being investigated when his neighbor, Waterbury, also kept pigs.

This hint was more than sufficient for Mrs. Michael and Mr. McBride and they journeyed over to see Mr. Waterbury and found that he had two pigs. They found his pig pen in fair condition although he had some garbage scattered around that threw off an odor and they notified him to clean up his pig pen and not to keep any will around after it was twenty-four hours old.

They then went over to see a man named Hunten, who also kept pigs and they found that his place was also in fair condition, and they served the same notice on him as they had on Mr. Waterbury.

Both men promised to see that the regulations of the board of health were observed. There being no further pigs observed on the horizon the committee turned their faces homeward.

To Be Special Police.

On the return trip home Mr. McBride and Mrs. Michael stopped in to see Mayor Canfield and after talking the matter over it was decided that the members of the sanitary committee apply to the police board for appointments as special police. This will allow them to take any needed action in regard to seeing that the regulations of the board of health are observed.

The other members of the party thought at first that they were going to witness something especially good in the little art, but Dr. Stelle who is not only a good doctor but a strategist of no mean order pleasantly remarked that there was going to be no disorder and that he did not believe the Ellsworths were going to try to lick him for the simple reason that he had been appointed a deputy sheriff and if they started any trouble he would place them both under arrest.

Inspection Then Proceeded.

After a few warm words the party then proceeded to inspect the premises and the Kingston delegation were pleasantly surprised to find that for once at least the Ellsworth pigs were not boarding in the city but had gone to the country to spend their vacation and were all lodged in the town of Ulster.

Mr. McBride one of the sanitary committee acknowledged that Ellsworth's pig pens were in the best condition that he had seen them but they were still far from ideal. The garbage fed the pigs threw off an odor said Mr. McBride that could be plainly smelled at least a quarter of a mile.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Ellsworth was not keeping his pigs in the city limits it placed the matter squarely up to the authorities of the town of Ulster to get busy and make Mr. Ellsworth clean up.

Still More Pigs.

Mr. Ellsworth after the inspection had proceeded for some time wanted to know why he was always being investigated when his neighbor, Waterbury, also kept pigs.

This hint was more than sufficient for Mrs. Michael and Mr. McBride and they journeyed over to see Mr. Waterbury and found that he had two pigs. They found his pig pen in fair condition although he had some garbage scattered around that threw off an odor and they notified him to clean up his pig pen and not to keep any swill around after it was twenty-four hours old.

They then went over to see a man named Buntin, who also kept pigs and they found that his place was also in fair condition, and they served the same notice on him as they had on Mr. Waterbury.

Both men promised to see that the regulations of the board of health were observed. There being no further pigs observed on the horizon the committee turned their faces homeward.

To Be Special Police.

On the return trip home Mr. McBride and Mrs. Michael stopped in to see Mayor Canfield and after talking the matter over it was decided that the members of the sanitary committee apply to the police board for appointments as special police. This will allow them to take any needed action in regard to seeing that the regulations of the board of health are observed.

Universal Love of Novel.

Novels are sweet. All people with healthy literary appetites love them—almost all women; a vast number of clear, hard-headed men, judges, bishops, chancellors, mathematicians, are notorious novel readers, as well as young boys and sweet girls, and their kind, tender mothers.—William Makepeace Thackeray.

New Number on Clock.

Donald, not quite six, is just learning to tell the time. The other day he was playing in the room where the clock is and his mother in an adjoining room asked him what time it was. He glanced at the clock and answered, "Well, mamma, it is just five minutes past the keyhole."

AMERICAN SINGER WEDS ZIMBALIST IN LONDON; NOW ON HONEY-MOON.

(Alma Gluck and Her Husband.)

London, June 18.—This picture shows the well known American singer with Efrem Zimbalist, the Russian violinist, to whom she has just been married here. Zimbalist is a protégé of the late Joseph Fels. Only a few friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony, and the departure of the bride and groom was equally quiet and inconspicuous. Impressive services were held in the Church of the Presentation on Sunday evening. The occasion was the solemnization of the feast of Corpus Christi. Taking as his text the words of John X. 10, "I am come that they may have life, and may have it more abundantly," the Rev. Father Leonard spoke in glowing terms of the love manifested to men by the Saviour in His sacrament. Then was formed an elaborate procession in which the boys of the parish neatly attired, as also the girls robed in white, wearing veils and wreaths and carrying bouquets, took part. Father Leonard bore the Blessed Sacrament aloft. As the procession moved along six of the girls strewed flowers before the king of the altar, while the choir alternated with the children in singing hymns. The services were concluded with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The following day was likewise a red letter day for the parish. At 5 p. m. the joyous peals of bells announced the approach of the Rt. Rev. Thomas Cusack, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, who was to confer the sacrament of confirmation. In his address to those to be confirmed, Bishop Cusack described in a forcible manner the necessity of receiving the Holy Spirit, even in our own day when faith is so vigorously attacked. Among other things he said: "The names of those soldiers, who but a few days since died at Vera Cruz in defense of the flag, will be recorded in letters of gold in the annals of American heroism. Had these same soldiers quailed in the face of danger, their names like that of Benedict Arnold would be clouded in perpetual disgrace. In like manner those who are ashamed of the faith received in baptism and renounce it for the sake of preferment or social gain will merit the reproach mentioned by Christ himself: 'But he that shall deny me before men, I will also deny him before my Father who is in heaven.'"

The following are the names of those who were confirmed: Charles Branigan, Jno. Corbett, Raymond Corbett, Frank Cummings, Jno. Duffy, Thomas Duffy, Walter Fallon, Bernardino Ferrara, Rosario Ferrara, Salvatore Ferrara, Jno. Henry, Thos. Higgins, James Higgins, Frank Kelly, Jno. NATIONAL GUARD SERVICE.

Means Development of More Than Science of Warfare.

Membership in the guard will teach you and develop in you the following necessary attributes of the successful and valuable man:

Accuracy.—Taught in all drills, guard duty, scouting, signaling, and duty as agents or messengers.

Appearance.—Taught by the requirements as to neatness, cleanliness, and soldierly conduct.

Assertiveness.—Taught first to the recruit by the example of his instructors. Required of him from first promotion as a corporal up through the various grades until he is fitted to command.

Discipline.—Taught from the first lesson where the teaching of the rules and practice accustom the man to order and subordination. He who has not first learned to obey can never hope to command.

Energy.—Nothing can be accomplished without effort, and the lessons of quick, orderly movement taught at drill accustom the man to a physical and mental condition that acts as a stimulant to his every thought and move. The sluggish never gets very far in military life.

Education.—Mental and moral training; special knowledge. No man can advance far in general military training without acquiring some habit of thought and study. In the special branches the list of things that must be mastered is too long for repetition here.

Executive Ability.—Nothing develops a man's ability to carry some order or plan into effect in a practical manner more quickly than the work of the corporal and sergeant, and nothing rounds it out better than experience as a first, quartermaster, or mess sergeant. From the best of these the officers are selected.

Foresight.—It might be supposed that this habit would not be developed where absolute obedience and subordination are insisted on; but the experienced soldier will develop this faculty in a wonderful degree. As he develops into an officer he must constantly make use of it, and the penalty for failure to use it is often quick and sharp.

Grit.—No quality is more in demand, and is therefore more generally developed among soldiers. The quitter soon becomes an outcast and is eliminated.

Honesty.—Every movement of the soldier must be clean and above board. Thrown into close contact, night and day, with each other, soldiers soon learn that anything else is fatal to peace and quiet. The liar, the cheat and the thief are soon found out and gotten rid of. The word of an officer is regarded as the equivalent of an oath.

Initiative.—No quality is more highly prized, and more generally cultivated. Commencing with the first lessons in open order, squad leading, through the instruction in shooting, this quality is sought for and developed in each individual.

Judgment.—The ability to do the right thing at the right time is necessary for all military movements. It is taught through the medium of all drills and instruction, where the man is first taught to use his judgment as to time, cadence and space used being that required.

Memory.—From the first learning of the general orders of the sentinel, a soldier's memory is developed and trained, until as an agent he is called upon to transmit long verbal messages under conditions of stress and excitement.

Morality.—The requirements as to his physical condition at all times and the supervision kept over it by his superiors compel the soldier to live cleanly and morally. The standard in military affairs is very high in this regard.

Organization.—From the moment of enlisting the man becomes the part of a systematic and regulated whole, and as he continues he is trained in the forming of the machine and its operation. He learns to appreciate what advantages accrue from organization and what is necessary to secure it. The whole aim of military discipline is toward securing organization.

Persistence.—The work of the drillmaster in the recruit exemplifies this characteristic from the beginning, and as the recruit develops into the soldier he finds that this quality must be developed at every drill.

Promptness.—Military promptness is proverbial. It is taught and required at all times.

Reliance.—Sure Dependence.—The well-trained soldier can always be depended upon to do his duty because every bit of training that he has received has taught him the necessity of careful attention to orders and instructions, and moreover he has learned to overcome obstacles and meet emergencies.

Resource.—Not until a man has been brought face to face with an emergency can it be determined how well he can meet it, but the soldier is being constantly trained in order to develop this faculty, and scarcely a day passes in camp or on the march that opportunities of practice are not met with. The old soldier is well-known for his expedients under trying conditions.

System.—The regular method and order of a soldier's life and instruction teaches system as the foundation of the whole.

Tact.—In order to pass well with his fellows this faculty is required and its development comes with the attainment of promotion and responsibility.

Temperance.—The effort of all the teaching in the guard is toward moderation in all things but laudable effort. The requirement of effort demands that excesses should be limited if not eliminated.

The requirements of public or private employment in responsible positions are varied and severe, but summed up and analyzed the general requirements are the same, and the foregoing analysis covers the elements and their fulfillment by a man will insure his success.

Military training builds up and strengthens these characteristics, and to the man who takes it seriously and tries to extract all the good that it is possible to derive from such training, the national guard offers an opportunity to young men unexcelled by any other, and it is within the reach of all.

Specifications of an Officer.

He must suitably graduate the intensity of his efforts according to the work assigned; he must be able to properly appreciate the phases of events so as to be able to judiciously combine his efforts with those of others. On the other hand, he must have a liking for responsibility, which the habit of command gives, for making at the proper time important decisions, and not allow himself to be swayed by the impatience of those around him or withheld by the indecision or fear of others.

He should have the personal prestige which physical, intellectual and moral superiority gives, the energy to maintain order in his organization and to insure firm discipline, the enthusiasm to inspire like enthusiasm among his men, and the mastery of himself so as to keep cool under all circumstances.

So complex a task, implying natural gifts of intelligence and qualifications for personal work, and the practice of his profession, cannot be trusted to a man without education and practical training.

If military requirements involve such characteristics, would it not be of inestimable value to you?

Would you not be better able to command a higher salary or fill a more responsible position if you could fill these specifications?

We offer you the opportunity; can you afford to pass it by?

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9945.—A Charming and Stylish Model Costume for Misses and Small Women.

White linen was chosen for this design, with frills of embroidered tulle at neck and sleeve edges. The design is unique in its shaping. The skirt slightly draped in a deep fold over the front, has plaited fullness at the back. The right waist front crosses over the left diagonally to correspond with the skirt. The sleeve is cut in one with the shoulder portions, and has two seams. It may be finished in wrist or elbow length. This design in chiffon or mousseline or in voile will be equally effective. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 17 and 18 years. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 14 year size. Skirt measures about 1 1/2 yard at lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 16 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

He must suitably graduate the intensity of his efforts according to the work assigned; he must be able to properly appreciate the phases of events so as to be able to judiciously combine his efforts with those of others. On the other hand, he must have a liking for responsibility, which the habit of command gives, for making at the proper time important decisions, and not allow himself to be swayed by the impetuosity of those around him or withheld by the indecision or fear of others.

He should have the personal prestige which physical, intellectual and moral superiority gives, the energy to maintain order in his organization and to insure firm discipline, the enthusiasm to inspire like enthusiasm among his men, and the mastery of himself so as to keep cool under all circumstances.

So complex a task, implying natural gifts of intelligence and qualifications for command, supplemented by personal work and the practice of his profession, cannot be trusted to a man without education and practical training.

If military requirements involve such characteristics, would it not be of inestimable value to you?

Would you not be better able to command a higher salary or fill a more responsible position if you could fill these specifications?

We offer you the opportunity; can you afford to pass it by?

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9945.—A Charming and Stylish Model Costume for Misses and Small Women.

White linen was chosen for this design, with frills of embroidered batiste at neck and sleeve edges. The design is unique in its shaping. The skirt slightly draped in a deep fold over the front, has plaited fullness at the back. The right waist front crosses over the left diagonally to correspond with the skirt. The sleeve is cut in one with the shoulder portions, and has two seams. It may be finished in wrist or elbow length. This design in chiffon or moire taffeta or in voile will be equally effective. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 17 and 18 years. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 14 year size. Skirt measures about 1 1/2 yard at lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Graduation Time

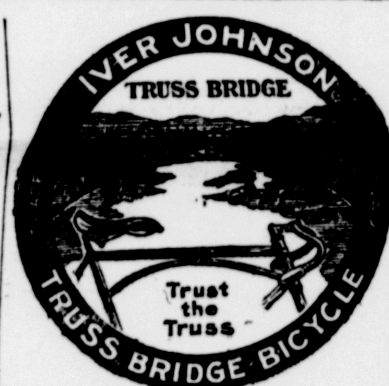

Graduation is an event worthy of some token of remembrance. Whether it is the grinning youngster passing from the primary to the grammar grades or the more serious-minded college senior, graduation means achievement and work well done. No time is more appropriate for a gift nor could one be surrounded by happier associations.

Our work is well done, too. Long ago we graduated and took our place as jewelers to meet your every want. At this season our stock is particularly rich in the things that are most suitable for commencement gifts. Rings, la valieres, pendants and chains for the girls; fobs, scarf pins and watches for the boys. The present need not be nor should it be an expensive one, but you should insist upon the finest quality, and that is what we can offer you.
